Responsive Reading 627 On Listening to God
Leader: When the world around me is turbulent and deafening,
People: I will listen to your still small voice.
Leader: When human reasoning seems too sweetly reasonable,
People: I will seek the mind of Christ through the Word of God.
Leader: When I am pressed with heavy responsibilities, and frayed by the strains of ministry,
People: I will pause that I may be still, so that I may realize again the astonishing fact that you are God, and that my world is still under your control.
All: Blessed be the God who daily leads us in triumph. Amen

Gratitude

I want to express my deepest gratitude to my Digby Baptist Church family for their remembrances of me on my 101st birthday last Monday. It was a very special day for me, with expressions of love and acts of kindness from so many. The beautiful card with all your names signed meant so much. It was very touching to learn that the children also joined in celebrating my special day, singing the Happy Birthday song along with the congregation during the service, and later continuing the celebration during their children's program, by having a little party in my honour, with a beautiful birthday cake made by Terry Gilbert. I am hoping that some day I will be able to attend a service, but in the meantime, please remember that I love you all, and that I am thankful that you love me too.

Marie
